POWERFUL Instruction

Please try out Nepris.com. This is a collection of videos (typically about 5-15 min. long), where professionals and career experts record a video of a live chat they have done with a classroom. Your students get to learn and hear from current professionals practicing in the field, from all around the world.

Many of the topics are connected to STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Art, and Mathematics), but there is a huge variety, from K-12, from Health, Medicine, Business, and more. You have free access to the video library, and you can even request a live session. This is a perfect way to use your technology to connect your students to the world.

To the right is a print screen of some of the video choices, but there are thousands.

The bronze plan is free!
